EMA Update

LEPC Membership Application Renewal:

Reminded attendees that we are looking to have greater membership to the organization and reminded everyone where that information can be obtained.

GIS Mapping of Facilities – Update

GIS Specialist Thomas Fennell provided an update on progress in the mapping of Tier II Facilities. Continues to work on flood inundation mapping and historical disaster information. Director Bradley Nuding provided some additional background for newcomers explaining its functionality relative to critical infrastructure.

Reported that our LEPC Semi-Annual Report was provided to the State of Maine as required. Copies were offered to attendees.

Discussed trainings that were facilitated through PTEMA. Reminded attendees about the requirements that there be at least 8 students and that the training be approved before it is held.

Director Nuding provided a brief overview of the intent of LEPC for the newer members explaining the two LEPC funding streams, how they are identified, and expended.

This completed the agenda.

The meeting was turned over to the host Jarod Hjort, Fish Culture Supervisor for IF&W for Cobb Station Fish Hatchery.

Under the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act (EPCRA), Local Emergency Planning Committees (LEPCs) must develop an emergency response plan, review the plan at least annually, and provide information about chemicals in the community to citizens.
